Understanding Medicare

Medicare Skilled Services are defined as any care which requires skilled nursing (extensive wound care and care of new enteral feeding devices) or skilled rehabilitation services (physical, speech and audiology, and occupational therapy) that must be performed and supervised by professionals in accordance with physicians orders.

Hospitals are discharging numerous patients who require rehabilitative services to restore them back to their highest functional capacity. Following therapy, many of these patients are able to return home again to regain their independence. Therefore, for many families, the choice for skilled care becomes a nursing facility qualified to handle the patient's special needs.
